Letter of recommendation regarding Ranuka Rajendram (RR), 4. semester, bachelor programme in Humanistic Informatics, Aalborg University.

Academic qualities:

RR has proven her ability to understand, explain and utilize often complex theories, for specific purposes in relation to communication and media studies. She has also shown a creative and innovative approach to problem solving and development of designs to solve specific problems. Being a student of a program based on problem based learning in groups RR has also developed her collaborative and problem solving skills.

Personal and social qualities:

I very much value that RR is involved in different boards that works to the benefit of her peers and the program in general.

I thus expect RT be ready for a semester abroad. I also expect RT be an active contributor to any study program he decides to enrol in.
